OUR SPEAKERS

Dr Genevieve Keating has spent the last thirty years wondering “how we are who we are”. She is passionately interested in developing brains and how we, as a community, can have a guiding hand. While wondering, she has been studying, teaching and rehabilitating her own brain.

Her study has earned her a Bachelor of Applied Science in Chiropractic (1988), a Master-practitioner of NLP (1991), and a Diplome of the American Chiropractic Neurology Board (2004).

She has designed and taught seminars for 20 years. She currently teaches postgraduate paediatric seminars for Inspiral and is Assistant Professor of the Carrick Institute for Graduate Studies, teaching the Chiropractic Neurology programme in Australia.

She is committed to engaging health practitioners and the community in understanding, assessing and supporting neuro-development, ensuring that babies and children are given the best chance for healthy, happy lives. Her presentations have been described as “professional, engaging and enlightening”.

She has a referral practice in Melbourne and is incredibly inspired by the babies and children she works with.

THE PROGRAMME

Building brains for learning

This seminar offers you vital information on how children grow and develop their brains and ability to learn.

Between birth and school, children learn to give and receive love; to roll, crawl, stand, walk, and run; to talk, joke, rhyme, and sing. But development doesn't happen in the same way, at the same time, for all children. Research shows that 15-18% of children have some form of developmental delay when they start school. It doesn't have to be this way.

Genevieve translates the science of neurological development into strategies that every Chiropractor can tailor to use daily. She will guide you through the way to know if development is on track and what to do if it is not; in simple easy to implement ways...for the benefit of the children and our communities.
